Violence & Antisocial Behaviour

Since 1 April 2020, 1,957 crimes have been identified via police proactivity – up 20.6% on the previous year.

Overall downward trend in both serious & minor violence.

1,230 common assaults have been recorded, compared to 1,410 in the previous year (-12.8%). 204 assaults targeted emergency workers (five more than the previous year), with 93% targeting police officers. The Royal Alexandra Hospital continues to be a significant repeat location for assaults on police and other emergency workers.

87 serious assaults were recorded (28 fewer), with a detection rate of 74.7%, compared to 75.7% in the previous year. Meanwhile, one fewer robbery was recorded (n=51), while the robbery detection rate increased by 3.6 percentage points to 86.3%. 41% of serious assaults, and 63% of robberies, occurred in private dwellings.

Acquisitive Crime

Crimes of theft by shoplifting fell by 40.6%, to a total of 432. The detection rate is 69.6%, close to the previous year's position (71.1%).

There were 258 housebreakings (including attempts) – 17 fewer than in the previous year, with the decrease exclusively relating to HBs targeting commercial premises.

A total of 2,155 acquisitive crimes have been recorded year-to-date – a decrease of 13.4% on the previous year. This continues to largely be driven by the fall in reported common theft and theft by shoplifting. The detection rate for acquisitive crime is 36.2%, 2.3 percentage points below the previous year's position. A drop in the detection rate for fraud appears to be the main cause of the overall decrease in detection rate, this being associated with the growth of cyber-enabled crimes and the additional complexities of investigating and detecting such crimes.

15 bogus crimes have been reported, five more than the previous year, with the majority targeting elderly members of the community. Crimes typically involved victims being over-charged for roofing and gardening work, which suspects thereafter failed to undertake.

38% of reported sexual offences in the current year were non-recent in nature (reported more than one year since the date the crime occurred). The number of reported non-recent sexual offences fell by three percent on the previous year; meanwhile, recent offences fell by eight percent.

45% of victims were aged under 16 years at the time of the offence, with indications of an increase in the number of targeting younger victims compared to the previous year. However, 59% of the crimes targeting young people were non-recent in nature.

The detection rate for sexual crime increased by 1.4 percentage points on the previous year's position, to 62.4%

There have been 309 missing person incidents in Renfrewshire. 78% of incidents involved people aged under 19 years, and a third of all incidents originated from Young Persons Units. Repeat missing persons continue to be an issue, with the top five individuals accounting for 15% of all missing persons incidents.

1,794 domestic abuse incidents have been reported to the police, a decrease of 9.9% on the previous year. 1,094 crimes and offences were raised as a result of reported incidents, representing a decrease of 10.1% on the previous year – with a conversion rate of all domestic incidents into crime incidents of 43.4% (compared to 44.7% in the previous year). Meanwhile, the detection rate for domestic crimes and offences increased from 63.6% in the previous year, to 69.7% in the current period.

Public Confidence

There were 143 complaints about police during the reporting period. This equates to 36.8 complaints per 10,000 police incidents.

Body Worn Video

Armed officers will be equipped with Body Worn Video (BWV) ahead of the COP26 climate change summit to be held in Glasgow later this year.

The initial roll-out will be followed by a national programme to provide all officers and staff in appropriate roles with Body Worn Video.

Chief Constable Iain Livingstone has told the Scottish Police Authority he supported an accelerated roll-out of BWV to all appropriate officers and staff across Police Scotland as quickly as funding allowed.

The initial roll-out of BWV to armed officers will provide a valuable basis and learning for the broader national plan.

Are You Listening

Child Criminal Exploitation (CCE) is a term used to describe when children and young people are manipulated or coerced into committing crimes. The most common type of crimes they are becoming involved in is activity known as 'County Lines'.

Funded by Leicestershire and Rutland's Violence Reduction Network, a new film entitled 'Are you listening' aims to raise awareness of the issue of CCE, some of the signs that could indicate a child is in danger and where help and support can be found.

The film focuses on four stories, which although fictional, are typical of the types of criminality children do become involved in.

This has been shared throughout 'K' division and has now been made available to campus officers who will disseminate to schools and care establishments.

Conventional Response Unit (CRU)

The Conventional Response Unit (CRU) has been stood up to support local policing during this particularly challenging phase of the national effort to tackle coronavirus. The Chief Constable has been very clear that Police Scotland must maximise our visible presence in our communities and on our roads to help people, offer reassurance and to act as a deterrent to those considering breaching restrictions.

A launch took place week commencing 11th January 2020 comprising of a small initial deployment. Officers assisted divisions by attending calls, locus protection, high visibility patrols, assisting Roads Policing and various other duties.

Take Five for Fraud

Cases of criminals exploiting unsuspecting people and persuading them to part with money or personal information are continuing to rise. Scottish Government figures show that in 2019-20, fraud increased by 23% including many committed online, as fraudsters use the internet more and more to target victims.

Throughout the campaign, officers, staff members of the public and business will be encouraged to Take Five – and following this straightforward and impartial advice:

- Stop - Taking a moment to stop and think before parting with your money or information could keep you safe.
- Challenge - Could it be fake? It's ok to reject, refuse or ignore any requests. Only criminals will try to rush or panic you.
- Protect - Contact your bank immediately if you think you've fallen for a scam and report it to Police Scotland.

Mentoring Program

Police Scotland has launched new mentoring programme.

The programme pairs mentors and mentees to share their knowledge, skills and experience with others. This one-to-one support will assist in professional and personal development and is open to all SPA/police staff, officers and special constables regardless of rank, role or location.

Partnerships are matched with the skills and experience that the mentee has expressed an interest in developing, with those that the mentor has to offer.

Off the Bench

Officers in K are currently working with St Mirren FC in the innovative Off the Bench Diversion from prosecution programme, which is intended to contribute to reduced re-offending rates. Programme cohorts are due to commence in April 2021, January 2022 and August 2022.

The 16-week programme, which has been approved by the Crown Office and Procurator Fiscal Office (COPFS), is aimed at those aged between 18 and 24 years who are involved in anti-social behaviour or have committed offences of a minor nature – not necessarily related to football. The programme will focus on education, physical health, and mental health as a prevention from anti-social behaviour/re-offending and will be delivered by the Police, Community Trusts and key external partners.
