The current system which we have in place is not as efficient as possible and is creating a level of carbon capture that would not comply with the current legislation standards. By taking on board the professional advice and information which we have sought and therefor changing to gas we would fully meet these current and indeed any future change in regards to this legislation. We have instructed a professional inspection report costing £750 to investigate ways in which we could economise the running costs of the building and also comply with current and future legislation regarding the level of carbon capture which we produce. This report recommended changing the current system we have and to replace the current energy supply source from electricity to gas. This report is available upon request. This new system would allow the the club to install an environmentally friendly heating system which will also result in lower carbon emissions. The club will seek to have the system installed by local contractors and therefor re-invest the money within the Renfrewshire economy. The club will be meets its obligation to be greener and meet the current and future legislation levels of carbon capture emissions as required.

(Please use a separate sheet if required)	2.3 2.9	Within the main project, there are mini projects, this one being the first phase, which is to investigate life over a stage of a millennium about All Hallows. This element of the project is the photographing of the ancient stones to allow 3D modelling of these stones using RTI and photogrammetry. It was decided by the group this was of historical interest to the group and community. There is a significance in this area of Inchinnan and this statement is backed up by Environment Scotland Scheduled Monument Ref. M2792. The group has identified the need for this area to be investigated. For the development of the project, the group has become involved in archaeology. The group will compare these ancient stones at Inchinnan with other ancient stones from within the Paisley Abbey and Govan. This will be done by photographing all stones, creating 3d models, comparing with other recorded known ancient stones in other areas and establishing if other information can be learned from it all. A better evidence-based understanding of these stones.
